Brand New Book  Print on Demand .A Roman Catholic nun, Mother Marie-Therese, is the surviving victim of one of Belgium's most notorious crimes, involving kidnap, torture, and murder. It all took place in enchanting, picturesque Bruges, Belgium, the Venice of the North. Her co-victim, an American priest, Father Thomas Jensen, did not survive. Although his body was never found, Piet Van Kampen confessed to killing the priest, for which he received a life sentence without parole. Twenty years later, on the day after the convicted killer's death, journalist Celeste De Smet draws a career-making assignment, an exclusive, first-ever interview with the nun. Reeling from the day-old breakup of a long-term relationship, Celeste arrives at the motherhouse of the Servant Sisters of Jesus and Mary in Florenville, a town in Southeastern Belgium. She expects to spend an afternoon with the nun and be on her way back to the capital. Mother Marie-Therese (Tesse) has a different plan. She bargains with Celeste for an exchange of life experiences, the reporter's for hers—in that order. Caught off-guard by this unexpected request and a possible delay in her return to Brussels, Celeste weighs her options. She chooses the interview's career potential over her reluctance to open her life to this stranger. Thus begins a cycle of deeply personal revelations that will occupy the two women for several days. Celeste outlines her youth and upbringing, including a secret vow made to God and broken. In return, Tesse responds to the reporter's opening query, how she and Fr. Jensen happened to be in Bruges together on the day of the kidnapping. Tesse then gets Celeste to discuss an unresolved adolescent trauma. The reporter has carried...
